

PROJECT FOCUS

 To support CTAHI with data collection, analysis and reporting for its contract with Austin Public Health’s COVID-19 Rapid Response Initiative.

DELIVERABLES

- Development of a data intake tool to help CTAHI more efficiently collect and track pre-determined data points for the Covid-19 testing initiative
 - Monthly reports and a final summary report
 - Documentation of R scripts used to conduct analyses in reports

Central Texas Allied Health Institute (CTAHI) believes education’s highest purpose is community elevation. It exists to create opportunities where vulnerable communities have access to a world class quality education in the areas of allied health (phlebotomy, pharmacy technician, surgical technologist) at an affordable price. In response to COVID-19, CTAHI was contracted by the City of Austin–Austin Public Health to provide rapid COVID-19 testing for high-risk workers, marginalized, and vulnerable populations within Travis County.
