- Data tracking framework, outlining key metrics to track, data collection cadence and frequency, and collection method
- Compilation of findings (assumptions and if-then support) from literature review

PLANET TEXAS 2050
A UT Grand Challenge

Planet Texas 2050 researchers are committed to developing programs and policy recommendations that will improve Texas' adaptability and build its resilience. To do that, their work focuses on understanding the interconnectedness of four critical resource systems: water, energy, urbanization, and ecosystem services.
